

SIMON ROGERS

Simon has been entertaining Australians on stage and screen since he was 14. After studying at the Victorian College of the Arts he was one of the originators of TheatreSports in Victoria – hosting and producing the show when it was the most popular version of TS in the world.

He has appeared in countless television dramas, ads, comedies and radio programs and hosted high profile events such as “A Night with Terry Jones”, the AFI Awards, International TheatreSports, the St. Kilda Film Festival, ACS Awards nights and the Sydney Olympics Torch Relay.

Simon has also performed thousands of stand-up comedy and improv shows across Australia and Asia – including the legendary Improv Club in New York. His comedy skills have come in handy as well to warm-up hundreds of TV programs.

He broadcasts regularly on the ABC and produced & presented a morning show for Kinglake Ranges Radio – an ABC station set up in Kinglake after the Black Saturday fires that helped bind the community back together & for which he won a Walkley Award.

Simon is also very well known in the corporate area, both as an MC for conferences and for creating hoax characters for a particular company or function.
